- Truist expects the Home Loan Tool Kit to be provided to borrowers for all purchase transactions for applications beginning on October 3rd, 2015.

Correspondent Closing Checklist

- The Correspondent Closing Checklist (COR 0013) is required to be used as a guide for the order of documents in a closed loan file submitted for purchase review and funding.

Homeownership Counseling Disclosure

For federally-related mortgages, Correspondent lenders must provide the consumer with a written disclosure containing a list of at least 10 homeownership counseling agencies. Include a copy of the homeownership counseling disclosure in your loan file submitted for purchase by Truist.

Compliance Errors and Omissions

Compliance Errors and Omissions

- Truist is often unable to complete its pre-purchase file review on a timely basis due to missing information and/or inaccurate compliance documentation in loan files. Loan files with missing documentation adversely impact Truist's ability to give the Correspondent lender the deserved quick turn-around on purchase decisions. Performing a "quality-check" before the loan is submitted to Truist for purchase, will facilitate the purchase of the loan more efficiently and decrease current turn times.
 - As a reminder, Truist requires the following documents or documentation in each file submitted for purchase:
 - The initial loan application signed and dated by the interviewer and borrower.
 - Documentation of the date of rate lock or rate set between the Lender and the borrower.
 - Documentation of the index value and index date used for the final Closing Disclosure on Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM) loans.
 - Flood certification.

TILA-RESPA Integrated Disclosure Rule (TRID) Overview

General

The TILA-RESPA rule consolidates four former disclosures required under TILA and RESPA for closed-end credit transactions secured by real property into two forms: a Loan Estimate that must be delivered or placed in the mail no later than the third business day after receiving the consumer's application, and a Closing Disclosure that must be provided to the consumer at least three business days prior to consummation.

The new Integrated Disclosures must be provided for most applications for closed-end credit transactions secured by real property on or after October 3rd, 2015. Creditors will still be required to use the GFE, HUD-1, and Truth-in-Lending forms for applications received prior to October 3rd, 2015. As the applications received prior to October 3rd, 2015 are consummated, withdrawn, or cancelled, the use of the GFE- HUD-1, and Truth-in-Lending forms will no longer be used for most mortgage loans.

Below is a high level overview of Integrated Mortgage Disclosures under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (Regulation X) and the Truth In Lending Act (Regulation Z). This is not a substitute for the actual rule.

New Definition of Application

An application is considered received when the borrower provides the following six (6) data elements:

- Borrower's name,
- Borrower's income,
- Borrower's social security number,
- Address of the subject property,
- Estimated subject property value, and
- Requested loan amount.

In addition, the consumer must be providing information in anticipation of a credit decision and the loan officer must have the consent of the consumer to begin processing the application.

The Loan Estimate (LE)

- This form integrates and replaces the RESPA GFE and the initial TILA disclosure for these transactions.
 - The LE must contain a good faith estimate of credit costs and transaction terms.
 - The LE must be in writing.
 - The creditor must deliver the LE or place it in the mail no later than the third business day after receiving the application.
 - Creditors may provide a revised LE for informational purposes or to reset tolerances.
 - If a mortgage broker receives a consumer's application, either the creditor or the mortgage broker may provide the LE.

The Closing Disclosure (CD)

For loans that require a LE and that proceed to closing, creditors must provide a new final disclosure reflecting the actual terms of the transaction called the Closing Disclosure (CD). The form integrates and replaces the existing HUD-1 and the final TILA disclosure for these transactions.

- The lender is generally required to ensure the consumer receives the CD no later than three (3) business days before consummation of the loan.
 - The CD generally must contain the actual terms and costs of the transactions.
 - Lenders may estimate disclosures using the best information reasonably available when the actual term or cost is not reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosure is made.
 - Lenders must act in good faith and use due diligence in obtaining the information.
 - A lender may normally rely on the representations of other parties in obtaining the information, including, for example, the settlement agent.
 - The creditor is required to provide corrected disclosures containing the actual terms of the transaction at or before consummation. If the actual terms or costs of the transaction change prior to consummation, the creditor must provide a corrected disclosure.
 - If the creditor provides a corrected disclosure, it may also be required to provide the consumer with an additional three (3) business day waiting period prior to consummation.

Expectations

- Truist expects lenders to comply with all federally and state mandated regulations as applicable.
- Truist expects lenders to utilize unmodified versions of the Loan Estimate and Closing Disclosure model forms and all disclosures made within.
- Truist requires the initial Loan Estimate and all subsequent Loan Estimates and Closing Disclosures in chronological order. All disclosures must include dates of issue, full documentation of any changed circumstance that led to an increase in one or more fees or charges and the date of such changed circumstance.
- Truist will not require signatures on the Closing Disclosure received by the borrower three (3) business days before consummation, but Truist will require both a copy of the Closing Disclosure that was provided to the borrower and any non-borrowers who have the right to rescind, prior to closing.
- Truist will not require seller signatures on the closing disclosure.
- If borrowers are permitted to shop for service providers, Truist expects lenders to list applicable providers and contact information on the revised version of the Written List of Service Providers.
- As required by GSE's Uniform Closing Dataset (UCD) framework, Truist expects a Loan Estimate/Closing Disclosure for all investment property transactions.

Section 32 Mortgages

General

The Home Ownership and Equity Protection Act of 1994 (HOEPA) addresses certain deceptive and unfair practices in home equity lending. It amends the Truth in Lending Act (TILA) and establishes requirements for certain loans with high rates and/or high fees. The rules for these loans are contained in Section 32 of Regulation Z, which implements the TILA, so the loans also are called “Section 32 Mortgages.” HOEPA applies to purchase transactions, refinances, and equity loans secured by an owner’s primary residence.

Section 32 Requirements

- Truist will not knowingly purchase a Section 32 mortgage.
 - If a loan is identified post funding as a Section 32 high cost/high fee mortgage, the Correspondent lender will be required to repurchase the loan. Truist does not accept any cures of high-cost loans.
 - Section 32 transactions include purchase money loans, refinances, home equity lines of credit, and equity loans secured by the owner’s primary residence.
 - A loan is considered a Section 32 loan if it fails either the APR test OR points and fees test.
 - Truist will include all discount points in our initial high-cost loan test. If a loan fails the high-cost test, Correspondent lenders will be asked to provide documentation that discount points are bona fide. If documentation can be provided to show discount points are bona fide, they will be excluded from the high-cost loan test.
 - Correspondent lenders are responsible for knowing all federal and state specific regulations related to high cost/high fee loans.

Section 35 Higher Priced Mortgage Loans (HPML)

General

The Federal Reserve Board amended Regulation Z in 2009 by adding a new category of loans secured by a primary residence called “Higher Priced mortgage Loans” (HPML). The regulation includes a new APR test under Section 35 of Regulation Z; APRs exceeding a certain index are referred to as Higher Priced Mortgage Loans (HPML).

Section 35 Requirements

- Truist will purchase a Section 35 Higher Priced Mortgage Loan (HPML) for all loan products.

Reference: See the Product Summary topic within Section 2.01: Agency Loan Standard for additional Agency specific guidance.

- Truist will purchase FHA Safe Harbor and Rebuttable Presumption Qualified Mortgages (QM) as defined by Regulation Z.
- A “higher priced mortgage loan” is defined as a loan secured by a primary residence (purchase, refinance, equity, all lien “positions”), where the APR exceeds the “average prime offer rate (APOR)” by:
 - At least 1.5% or more for conforming first liens
 - At least 2.5% or more for jumbo first lien loans
 - At least 3.5% or more for subordinate liens

Note: The APOR is most readily available from www.ffiec.gov/ratespread/newcalc.aspx.

- The Federal Reserve Board has released a clarification addressing prepayment penalties as they affect the new Section 35 (HPML).
 - Higher Priced Mortgage Loans are subject to the TILA HPML Escrow Rule which requires lenders to establish and maintain an escrow account for at least five years regardless of loan-to-value ratio.
 - Higher Priced Mortgage Loans are subject to the TILA HPML Appraisal Rule if they are non-QM. Truist will not purchase non-QM loans from correspondent lenders.
 - If the transaction is a Section 35 loan, it must meet the requirements of this section. The Correspondent lender must mark the appropriate boxes on the Correspondent Closing Checklist (COR 0013) indicating the lender’s lock agreement and APR Test screen shot is included in the loan file.
 - Truist will require Correspondent lenders to repurchase any loan, if it is discovered that the loan is subject to Section 32, does not meet Section 35 of Regulation Z requirements or is a high-cost loan under state or local regulations. Correspondent lenders are urged to consult with their Compliance Officer or Legal Counsel for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to Section 35 of Regulation Z.

Higher Priced Covered Transactions (HPCT)

General

As part of the Qualified Mortgage regulation, the CFPB introduced a new category of higher priced transactions, in addition to higher priced mortgage loans for determination of legal liability. Higher Priced Covered Transactions (HPCT) include loans for other consumer purposes that are not covered by the HPML rules, including the purchase or refinance of a second home and a cash out refinance of an investment property. While Truist will purchase Key Program loans that are Higher Priced Covered Transactions secured by second homes, investment properties are not eligible for the Key product.

HPCT Requirements

- The HPCT test is similar to the HPML test.
 - APR Test: The APR exceeds the Average Prime Offer Rate (APOR) of a comparable transaction by more than:
 - 1.5% for 1st liens; OR
 - 3.5% for 2nd liens
 - Correspondent lenders are urged to consult with their Compliance Officer or Legal Counsel for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to Higher Priced Covered Transactions.

Agency Points and Fees Test

Agency Points and Fees Test

- Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac require a points and fees test for primary residence, second home, and investment property loans.
- Truist will not purchase or fund any loan delivered as an Agency high-cost/high fee loan.
- Primary Residence and Second Home Loans: Total points and fees may not exceed 3% of the total loan amount or such different amount in accordance with the qualified mortgage (QM) provisions of Regulation Z (12 CFR §1026.43(e)(3)).
- Investment Property Loans:
 - Purchase and Rate/Term Refinance Transactions: Total points and fees may not exceed 5% of the total loan amount.
 - Cash-Out Refinance Transactions: Total points and fees may not exceed 3% of the total loan amount or such different amount in accordance with the qualified mortgage (QM) provisions of Regulation Z (12 CFR §1026.43(e)(3)).

Note: Truist views cash-out refinances of investment properties as consumer purpose loans; therefore, they are subject to qualified mortgage requirements. See “Qualified Mortgage Points and Fees Test” subsequently presented in this document for additional guidance.

- Truist will include all discount points in our initial high-cost loan test.
 - If a loan fails the high-cost test, Correspondent lenders will be asked to provide documentation that discount points are bona fide.
 - If documentation can be provided to show discount points are bona fide, they will be excluded from the high-cost loan test.
 - Correspondent lenders should consult with their Legal/Compliance departments for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to the ability to repay (ATR) provisions of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Dodd-Frank Act).

Agency APR Test

Agency APR Test

- Exempt mortgages are not subject to Qualified Mortgage (QM) APR Test requirements; however, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac have specific APR-APOR threshold requirements for these mortgages.
 - There are two classifications of Exempt Mortgages, as follows:
 - TILA Exempt Mortgage: A TILA Exempt Mortgage is a mortgage exempt from TILA and, as such, is exempt from the ATR requirements in Regulation Z. TILA Exempt Mortgages include business purpose loans as defined in 12 C.F.R. § 1026.3.
 - ATR Exempt Mortgage: An ATR Exempt Mortgage is a mortgage that is exempted, within the ATR rule in 12 C.F.R. § 1026.43(a)(3), from the ATR requirements in Regulation Z
 - Truist views purchase and rate/term refinances of investment properties as business purpose loans; therefore, they are subject to the following Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac APR/APOR threshold requirements for Exempt mortgages:
 - Investment Property Purchase and Rate/Term Refinance Transactions:
 - The loan's APR cannot exceed the average prime offer rate (APOR) by 6.5% or more calculated in accordance with the Revised General QM rule.
- Note: For ARMs, with an initial fixed period of five (5) years or less, lenders must calculate the APR using the maximum interest rate that could apply during the first five years after the first payment is due.
- Truist will not knowingly purchase or fund any investment property purchase or rate/term refinance loan delivered that does not meet the Agency APR test outlined in this section.

Note: Truist views cash-out refinances of investment properties as consumer purpose loans; therefore, they are subject to qualified mortgage requirements. See "Qualified Mortgage APR Test" subsequently presented in this document for APR Test requirements for investment property cash-out refinance transactions.

Qualified Mortgages

General

- On December 10, 2020, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) issued final rules amending the General Qualified Mortgage (QM) loan definition and creating a new type of QM loan, referred to as the “Seasoned QM” loan.

Note: “Seasoned QM” loans are not eligible for purchase by Truist.

- The QM amendments became effective on March 1, 2021 (CFPB’s optional compliance date) and have a mandatory CFPB compliance date of October 1, 2022. However, due to recent changes to the Preferred Stock Purchase Agreement with the U.S. Department of Treasury, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac (the GSEs) are subject to a mandatory compliance date of July 1, 2021 with the Revised General QM Rule requirements, for Agency loans they purchase. To be eligible for purchase by Truist:
 - Agency Loans: All Agency loans with application dates on or after July 1, 2021 must meet the “General QM” definition under the Revised General QM Rule.
 - Key Loan Program: All Key loans with application dates on or after September 2, 2022 must meet the “General QM” definition under the Revised General QM Rule.

Note: The Revised General QM Rule refers to the CFPB’s QM rule in Regulation Z, C.F.R. § 1026.43(e)(2), that became effective on March 1, 2021 and requires mandatory compliance by October 1, 2022. In addition to a points and fees test, the Revised General QM rule requires a new APR-APOR spread threshold test referred to as “Qualified Mortgage APR Test.”

- Truist will not knowingly purchase or fund any loan delivered that does not meet the “General QM” definition.

- Correspondent lenders are urged to consult with their Compliance Officer or Legal Counsel for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to Qualified Mortgages of Regulation Z.

Reference: See “Ability-to-Repay and Qualified Mortgage” in Section 1.05: Underwriting Standard for additional guidance.

Qualified Mortgage Points and Fees Test

- Truist will not knowingly purchase or fund any loan delivered that fails the Qualified Mortgage Points and Fees Test.
- Coverage applies to:
 - purchase money, refinance, and equity loans secured by the owner’s primary residence or second home, and
 - investment property cash-out refinance loans.

Note: Truist views cash-out refinances of investment properties as consumer purpose loans; therefore, they are subject to qualified mortgage requirements.

- For a loan to be classified as a Qualified Mortgage, certain points and fees caps are imposed, which are based on loan amount and are either a percentage or fixed dollar amount.
 - The dollar amount caps will be adjusted annually for inflation by the CFPB.
 - Correspondent lenders are urged to consult with their Compliance Officer or Legal Counsel for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to the Qualified Mortgage Points and Fees Test.

Qualified Mortgage APR Test

- The Qualified Mortgage APR test is required for Agency and Key Loan Programs.
- Truist will not knowingly purchase or fund any loan delivered that fails the Qualified Mortgage APR Test.
- Coverage applies to:
 - purchase money, refinance, and equity loans secured by the owner’s primary residence or second home, and
 - investment property cash-out refinance loans.

Note: Truist views cash-out refinances of investment properties as consumer purpose loans; therefore, they are subject to qualified mortgage requirements.

APR Test: A loan is classified as a Qualified Mortgage if the APR for the loan exceeds the average prime offer rate (APOR) for a comparable transaction by less than the applicable threshold as of the date the interest rate is set.

- For ARMs, with an initial fixed period of five (5) years or less, lenders must calculate the APR using the maximum interest rate that could apply during the first five years after the first payment is due.
 - Loans that exceed the stated thresholds will be considered non-QM mortgages and not eligible for purchase by Truist.
 - Correspondent lenders are urged to consult with their Compliance Officer or Legal Counsel for information, interpretation, and/or additional requirements related to the Qualified Mortgage APR Test.

Loan Originator (LO) Compensation

Overview

- Revisions to Regulation Z imposes new requirements governing loan originator compensation and steering that became effective with all loan applications received on or after April 1, 2011. The purpose of these revisions are to protect consumers in the mortgage market from unfair or abusive lending practices that can arise from certain loan originator compensations practices, while preserving responsible lending and sustainable homeownership.
- These requirements prohibit:
 - a loan originator from receiving compensation from both the consumer and any other person (including the lender) on a given transaction.
 - a loan originator from steering a consumer to a transaction based on the fact the originator will receive greater compensation from the creditor in that transaction than in other transactions the originator offered or could have offered to the consumer, unless the transaction is in the consumers interest.
 - payments to the loan originator that are based on the loan's interest rate or other terms. Compensation that is based on a fixed percentage of the loan amount is permitted.
- Penalties for non-compliance with these new regulations are severe. In addition to the penalty risk for the originating lender, in certain cases, the cost of penalties for violations will act as a reduction to a secondary market investor's recovery in foreclosure, so we must work together to mitigate risk associated with non-compliance.
- The definition of loan originator compensation is very broad under the regulation, so it is prudent to review them carefully to understand how they apply to your business.
- The final rules, which apply to closed-end loans secured by a consumer's dwelling, will:
 - Prohibit payments to the loan originator that are based on the loan's interest rate or other terms. Compensation that is based on a fixed percentage of the loan amount is permitted.
 - Prohibit a mortgage broker or loan officer from receiving payments directly from a consumer while also receiving compensation from the creditor or another person.
 - Prohibit a mortgage broker or loan officer from "steering" a consumer to a lender offering less favorable terms in order to increase the broker's or loan officer's compensation.
 - Provide a safe harbor to facilitate compliance with the anti-steering rule.

Overview, (continued)

- The safe harbor is met if: The consumer is presented with loan options for each type of transaction in which the consumer expresses an interest (that is, a fixed rate loan, adjustable rate loan, or a reverse mortgage); and the loan options presented to the consumer include the following:
 - The lowest interest rate for which the consumer qualifies;
 - The lowest points and origination fees, and
 - The lowest rate for which the consumer qualifies for a loan with no risky features, such as a prepayment penalty, negative amortization, or a balloon payment in the first seven years.

A few highlights outlining the similarities and differences between “Borrower Paid Compensation” and “Lender Paid Compensation” are as follows:

Kansas Uniform Consumer Credit Code

Kansas Uniform Consumer Credit Code

- For all lenders that are not “supervised financial organizations,” Kansas requires the delivery of a disclosure to the borrower on any high loan-to-value mortgage loan secured by property in Kansas.
 - The Kansas Uniform Consumer Credit Code defines a “high loan-to-value mortgage” as any LTV/TLTV ratio that exceeds 100% based upon the appraisal of the property. This provision applies to any consumer loans secured by a first and second lien mortgages on the borrower’s principal residence.
 - If, based upon the appraisal, the LTV/TLTV ratio of the loan exceeds 100% then you must deliver to the borrower:
 - a free copy of the appraisal; and
 - a Kansas High Loan-To-Value Notice. A copy of the notice must be given to the borrower not less than three days before the loan closes and a copy placed in the file.
 - If, within three days after receiving the notice, the borrower elects not to enter into the loan transaction, then any application fees or other amounts paid by the borrower to the lender must be promptly refunded. However, the lender is NOT required to refund any bona fide out-of-pocket costs paid or payable to a third party and incurred before the borrower elected not to enter into the loan transaction.
 - Correspondent lenders should consult their Legal Counsel regarding questions concerning the Kansas Uniform Consumer Credit Code.

HMDA Information

General

- The Home Mortgage Disclosure Act (HMDA) requires the compilation and reporting of data about applications received and about applicant(s) characteristics.
- HMDA makes available to the public information that shows whether financial institutions are serving the housing credit needs of their neighborhoods and communities.
- The data can also help identify possible discriminatory lending patterns.
- In order to be in compliance with HMDA, Truist requires the completion of Section X of the Uniform Residential Loan Application (1003) and the Demographic Information addendum to be completed as of January 1, 2018.
- Race, ethnicity and gender information must be provided for all borrowers if the application was taken “face-to-face.”
- Additionally, any discrepancies between the initial and final typed application (1003) must be explained by the Correspondent lender.
- If the required demographic information has not been supplied by the Correspondent or does not match on the initial and final typed 1003’s, the underwriter or purchase reviewer will require the information as a “prior to closing” (PTC) or “prior to funding” (PTF) condition.
- Truist will not purchase a loan without accurate demographic information.
- The date of an applicant’s birth is required on the 1003 loan application.
 - This information permits the Lender to confirm the applicant is able to enter into a legally binding contract and may assist in resolving discrepancies that may appear on a credit report.
 - In addition, the USA Patriot Act requires the Lender to obtain and verify each applicant’s date of birth.
- Delegated Correspondent lenders are required to provide the ULI (Universal Loan Identifier). If a delegated Correspondent lender has determined it is not subject to HMDA Reg C, the lender is required to notify Truist upon file submission, so that a Truist ULI can be generated.
